Waldo Library
3rd Floor
Room 3028

Your wealthy second uncle has recently passed away and has left you with $10,000—with the stipulation that it must be spent traveling. In order to collect your inheritance you must provide the executor of the will with information about your chosen destination. Additionally, your uncle was a little eccentric—he hated “the internets” and demanded that you find this information in paper format. Luckily for you, since you are a WMU student, you can gather this information from Waldo Library’s map room. Once you have determined your destination, go to the map room and find a map showing your vacation destination. Record the following information and turn it in to the executor (also known as your instructor).
