Western Michigan University

Department of Comparative Religion

Study Abroad/Study in the States Scholarships

Undergraduate majors and graduate students in the department of comparative religion are invited to apply for the Study Abroad/Study in the States Scholarship. The maximum award amount is $1,000. Award amount will be determined based on the costs of the program, the merit of the application, and availability of funding.

Applications will be accepted for any Study Abroad/Study in the States program, including language study, cultural immersion, or academic coursework away from WMU. However, in years that department---specific Study Abroad or Study in the States programs are offered, applications for department---sponsored programs are prioritized for funding.

Eligibility:

1) Undergraduate students must have a declared major in comparative religion and have a grade point average of 3.0 or above.

2) Graduate students must be full---time students in the department of comparative religion and have a grade point average of 3.0 or above.

Application guidelines:

1) Students must apply by Feb 15 for summer sessions and fall semester and Oct 15 for spring semester.

2) To apply, email a request letter to s.covell@wmich.edu. Your letter should be sent as a word document or pdf attachment.

3) Your letter should be addressed to "Members of the Comparative Religion Department Scholarship Committee"
In your letter, please include: 1) The amount requested. 2) The total cost of the study abroad program. 3) A brief description of the program. 4) An explanation of the educational value that the program will have for the student in relation to his/her study of religion and/or future educational and professional plans.

For any questions, please contact:

Stephen Covell, Ph.D.
Mary Meader Professor of Comparative Religion
Chair, Department of Comparative Religion
Western Michigan University
Kalamazoo, MI 49008
(269) 387-4365
s.covell@wmich.edu