WMU MS 170 (Paschasius Radbertus, De corpore et sanguine domini), fols. 23v-24r

In 2016, with the help of a grant from the B. H. Breslauer Foundation, WMU purchased a twelfth-century manuscript of De corpore et sanguine domini ("On the Body and Blood of the Lord") by Paschasius Radbertus (d. 865), originally written as an instructional manual for Benedictine monks. The WMU manuscript is an extraordinarily small and handsome copy of the text and presents some interesting puzzles for the historian of medieval manuscript culture.

MMHC attendees have a pre-conference opportunity to view the manuscript on Friday, September 29 from 12:00-1:00 with Dr. Elizabeth C. Teviotdale, Assistant Director of the Medieval Institute in WMU Special Collections, 3rd Floor, Waldo Library, a short walk from the Fetzer Center.
