

CAS Women's Caucus Gender Scholar Award

Perinatal Domestic Violence: Unpacking Narratives of Survival

Violence against women within domestic/intimate relationships is a significant social problem that is often exacerbated during pregnancy. Dr. Angie Moe examines how abuse dynamics evolve during and following pregnancy, through the narratives of local women who have suffered the debilitating effects of perinatal domestic abuse.

Dr. Angie Moe, Professor of Sociology