The WMU Comparative Religion Department proudly presents

Dr. Jeanette Jouili
University of Pittsburgh

Assistant Professor of Religious Studies

"Pious Practice and Secular Constraints: Islam, Gender, and Europe's Muslim Crisis."

How do French and German Muslim women active in Islamic revival circles cultivate pious lifestyles while countering negative representations of Muslims within an increasingly hostile mainstream? Based on her recently published book (Stanford University Press, 2015), Dr. Jouili’s talk addresses ethical and political implications of the Islamic revival and how its gendered modes of non-sectarian civic virtue contribute to the shaping of a pluralist Europe.

Wednesday, April 13, 2016, 6 - 7:30 p.m.
Fetzer Center, Western Michigan University

The talk is free and open to the public.
Complementary parking for the event is available in lot 72-F. For overflow, please use lot 61.

Jeanette S. Jouili is Assistant Professor of Religious Studies at the University of Pittsburgh. She has held fellowships at Cornell’s Society for the Humanities, at Duke University, and at the Amsterdam Institute for Social Science Research. Her research and teaching interests include Islam in Europe, secularism, pluralism, popular culture, moral and aesthetic practices, and gender.

This talk is part of the Department of Comparative Religion’s Islam in Global Perspectives Speaker Series.
For more information visit: wmich.edu/religion/islam-speaker-series-review
For more details, please contact:
alisa.perkins@wmich.edu or nathan.tabor@wmich.edu