Taiwan’s Elections and the Impact on Relations with China

Open to the public free of charge.

Dr. Richard Bush is a senior fellow at the Brookings Institution, holds the Chen-Fu and Cecilia Yen Koo Chair in Taiwan Studies, and is director of its Center for East Asia Policy Studies. He also holds a joint appointment as a senior fellow in the Brookings John L. Thornton China Center. Bush came to Brookings in July 2002, after serving almost five years as the chairman and managing director of the American Institute in Taiwan, the mechanism through which the United States government conducts substantive relations with Taiwan in the absence of diplomatic relations.

Bush began his professional career in 1977 with the China Council of The Asia Society. In July 1983, he became a staff consultant on the House Foreign Affairs Committee’s Subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs. In January 1993, he moved up to the full committee, where he worked on Asia issues and served as liaison with Democratic members. In July 1995, he became national intelligence officer for East Asia and a member of the National Intelligence Council, which coordinates the analytic work of the intelligence community. He left the NIC in September 1997 to become head of the American Institute in Taiwan.

Richard Bush received his Ph.D. in political science from Columbia University in 1978. He is the author of a number of articles on China’s relations with its neighbors, particularly Taiwan. He is author or co-author of many books including: At Cross Purposes: U.S.-Taiwan Relations Since 1942 (M.E. Sharpe, 2004), Untying the Knot: Making Peace in the Taiwan Strait (Brookings Institution Press, 2005), A War Like No Other: The Truth About China’s Challenge to America (Wiley, 2007), Perils of Proximity: China-Japan Security Relations (Brookings Institution Press, 2010), and Uncharted Strait: The Future of China-Taiwan Relations (Brookings Institution Press, 2013).

Co-sponsored by
Taiwan and Asia Program at University of Texas, Austin
Diether H. Haenicke Institute for Global Education, WMU

For more information call: (269) 387-3951
Email: hige-lightcenter@wmich.edu
Visit us online: www.wmich.edu/chinesestudiescenter