Management
The management major prepares graduates to become effective and ethical employees by focusing on four core competencies: leadership, team effectiveness, quality and process improvement, and problem solving. A hallmark of the major is a reliance on active learning. The major is one of only a handful in the country pairing small business owners and entrepreneurs with student teams providing real-world exposure to the challenges of running a business and managing a team. The program has been designed to make WMU management graduates a top choice for recruiters seeking students with skills in leadership, teamwork, communication and quality management.
