Ritsumeikan University (Kyoto, Japan)

Founded in 1900, Ritsumeikan University enjoys a rich and prominent history and is considered one of the most distinguished institutions of higher learning and research in Japan. Its main campus is located in the Kinusaga region of Kyoto, and together with its branch campuses, it offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs to approximately 34,000 students in such fields as Humanities, International Relations, Law, Policy Science, Social Sciences, Economics, Business Administration and Science & Engineering. The university also provides a stimulating academic environment for international education and research through its global network spread over forty countries and regions. It promotes joint research by industry, government and academia through various research centers. Furthermore, Ritsumeikan was recently selected to head three large research projects as part of a new Center of Excellence research initiative by the Japanese Ministry of Education.
