

Econ 3840

Economic Development

ECON 3840 studies the economic problems of developing countries around the world. It focuses on the challenges and opportunities in fostering sustainable economic development in the 21st Century. We discuss economic growth and sustainable development from an international perspective. In addition the course includes discussions on the following:

- Role of education
- Health
- Capital Formation
- Technology Transfer Saving
- Population & Growth
- Innovation
- International Trade
- Environment

- Prerequisites: Econ 2010 & Econ 2020
- This course is “Hybrid” and meets face to face three times during the semester including a comprehensive final exam.

