Jeannette Lia Gaggino, M.D.
Bronson Methodist Hospital
Medical Director of Behavioral Health Services

Dr. Gaggino is the Medical Director of Behavioral Health Services at Bronson Methodist Hospital. Dr. Gaggino has more than 25 years' experience in general pediatrics. She is Board Certified in Pediatrics and Adolescent Medicine. Dr. Gaggino serves as the Chair of the Developmental Behavioral Mental Health Committee and is former president of the Michigan Chapter of the AAP (MIAAP). She is also a consultant to the University of Michigan Collaborative Care MC3 project with the Dept. of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry and to the Kalamazoo Collaborative Care (KCCP) Program, an initiative that offers psychiatric consultative service access to adults based on the MC3 model.

Given the high demand for behavioral health services, in the primary care setting, Dr. Gaggino partnered with WMU's Dept. of Clinical Psychology to develop an integrated behavioral health/primary care external practicum internship. With the help of the clinical psychology doctoral students, Dr. Gaggino has streamlined operations to improve health outcomes. She is currently developing protocols train physicians in developmental and behavioral screening.

Join us as Dr. Gaggino discusses the emergence of Integrated Behavioral Health, the Rambling Road external practicum, and her work to expand this model throughout Kalamazoo and Michigan.
