

Starting Your Own Michigan LLC

Dan Sundberg
Department of Psychology
Ph.D. Graduate Student

Thinking about doing private consulting work or even starting your own small business? Whether you work with the developmentally disabled, in the clinical setting, or in the business world this can be a very attractive option. Come to this brown bag event to learn more about your options for setting up a small business, and specifically how to start a Michigan Limited Liability Company. We will discuss the ins and outs of this process as well as pros and cons of various business structures, and have an open discussion on what it means to be self-employed.

Bring your laptop to this event and you will be able to have the major steps completed towards starting your own business by the end of this event!