

Behavior Analysis, Technology, & Education 3.0

Dr. Janet Twyman University of Massachusetts Medical School Associate Professor of Pediatrics

Janet is a noted proponent of effective instruction and leveraging technology to produce meaningful individual and system change. Formerly a preschool and elementary teacher, administrator, university professor, and Vice President at Headsprout, she is currently the Director of Innovation & Technology for the Center on Innovations in Learning (supported by the U.S. Dept. of Education). Janet has published and presented nationally and internationally on instructional design, evidence-based innovations, and educational technology, including speaking at the United Nations. Honors include President of the Association for Behavior Analysis International, ABAI Fellow, CODIE software awards, and the Wing Award for Evidence-based Education.

Friday, Sep. 30

4 p.m.

1720 Chem Building