Discussion and Workshop

The Marvelous Misery of Scholarly Writing

Dr. Amanda Karsten

Faculty Specialist

Western Michigan University

The purpose of this event is to help graduate students develop their scholarly writing repertoires. First, we will briefly discuss common pitfalls for students writing up their theses or dissertations. Next, I will suggest strategies to help students respond to their work as “[writer] and [reader] in the same skin.” We will conclude with time for questions and resource sharing among attendees. Finally, I invite student attendees to sign up for an optional, small-group workshop to apply new strategies to their writing sample with my support. Please email amanda.karsten@wmich.edu before 5PM on Thursday, May 14 to reserve your spot. May 15 workshops will take place from 2-3PM, 3-4PM, and 4-5PM.
