Students who enter the program with Masters' degrees in counseling psychology or counseling often meet all the Master's level prerequisites for doctoral courses and may have already have had a few of the required doctoral courses. Students, who enter with a Bachelor's degree, or a Master's degree in a non-counseling related area, will have to take additional Masters' level coursework and practica. For this reason, there may be higher mean and median amounts of time to complete the program for years in which a higher percentages of our graduates had entered the program with a Bachelor's degree or a Master's degree in a non-counseling related area.

The program of study form lists expected prerequisites for Master's level coursework as well as all the doctoral coursework. This can give applicants an estimate of what courses they made need to take.
