RESEARCH BRIEFS IN GLOBAL STUDIES
Spring 2019
Location for both sessions: Humanities Center, Knauss Hall
Brought to you by the Global and International Studies Program (GIST)

Thursday, February 7, 4 to 5 p.m.
A Woman’s Development
With Irma López and Mariam Konaté

López (pictured right, above) will discuss the writing development and emerging work of Mexican writer María Luisa Puga (1944-2004) as seen through the writer’s detailed journals. Konaté (pictured right, below) will discuss women’s roles in Burkina Faso, in terms of their status and power, and the government’s initiatives towards empowering women in all facets of the country’s development.

Thursday, March 14, 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.
Religious Education in Eurasia
With Elena Lisovskaya and Steve Covell

Lisovskaya (pictured left, above) will discuss the ideologies of religious culture textbooks in Russia, and their relation to Russia’s national identity. Covell (pictured left, below) will discuss the teachings of Temple Buddhism in modern-day Japan, specifically in Buddhist kindergartens and Buddhist universities.

“Research Briefs in Global Studies” offers unique opportunities to compare and contrast overlapping global themes in WMU faculty research.
