The Cheryl Lyon-Jenness Advanced Undergraduate Writing Award

The Cheryl Lyon-Jenness Advanced Undergraduate writing award honors student papers exceeding 4,000 words that fall under the broad rubric of research papers. This includes senior theses, historiographical works, material culture or museum related pieces, methodological/theoretical analyses, and critical review essays. Only papers prepared for the previous spring, fall, summer, and/or current academic semesters will be considered. The recipient of the Cheryl Lyon-Jenness writing award receives a stipend of $350. The deadline for submission is April 1.

Deliver this completed application and a hard-copy of your essay directly to the History Department main office (4301 Friedmann Hall).

Name: _______________________________ Win #: _____________________________

Essay Title: ________________

______________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________________

Paper Originally Submitted For: ___________________ Course Completed: __________

Course Number or Title Semester / Year