THE NORTHERN MEDIEVAL WORLD: ON THE MARGINS OF EUROPE

The Northern Medieval World: On the Margins of Europe aims to integrate research from historical, archaeological, literary and other traditions. Highly interdisciplinary in scope, the series also embraces gender, literary, manuscript, philosophical, religious, and textual studies, as well as sources for educational use. We welcome cutting-edge approaches that seek to engage with all of medieval Scandinavia: not only Denmark, Iceland, Norway, and Sweden but also regions of the world that were part of the Norse universe in the Middle Ages—such as Rus, Normandy, the Danelaw, and Greenland. Comparative studies are also welcome, as long as there is a significant Northern focus.

Keywords
Medieval Scandinavia; history; literature; law; gender; paleography; philosophy; religion; translations; editions

Proposals Welcome
