MEDIEVAL PEOPLE

MIP’s longest-running journal, Medieval Prosopography, is now Medieval People!

Medieval People is dedicated to highlighting the experiences of unknown or obscure individuals or groups, as well as exploring the social networks that gave shape to the lives of all medieval people. The journal has been updated to reflect new trends in scholarship and the ever-growing number of tools available to scholars, as well as the rich offerings of digital humanities projects that can assist scholars in developing a more inclusive understanding of the medieval world. Volume 35 of Medieval Prosopography was the last volume available in print and published with the former title, while volume 36 will be the first online-only volume under the new title.

Subscription Information
To subscribe to Medieval People, please visit our website at https://wmich.edu/medievalpublications/journals/prosopography

Submissions Welcome
This journal explores the lives of medieval people of all ranks, periods and places in the medieval world and welcomes submissions that explore a single life, that highlight the important social bonds of an individual or group, or the study of social networks from late antiquity to the sixteenth century. If the editors believe the article is suitable for publication in the journal, it will be evaluated by experts in the field. Articles in the major European languages are invited and will be published in their original language. Please contact Amy Livingstone (alivingstone@bsu.edu) or Charlotte Cartwright (charlotte.cartwright@cnu.edu) with any questions about submissions.

Please see further policies on submissions and submit your entire and completed work at the journal’s ScholarWorks page: https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/medpros/

CHIEF EDITOR
AMY LIVINGSTONE
Ball State University

CHARLOTTE CARTWRIGHT
Christopher Newport University

EXECUTIVE BOARD
- George T. Beech, Professor Emeritus, Western Michigan University
- Valerie L. Garver, Northern Illinois University
- Jonathan R. Lyon, University of Chicago
- Joel T. Rosenthal, State University of New York at Stony Brook