Medieval Institute Publications combines the accessibility and individual attention of a small press with the global reach and resources of our international partners.

MIP is a specialized university press dedicated to publishing academic texts on the history, literature, and culture of the premodern world. We're part of the Medieval Institute at Western Michigan University and staffed by medievalists, so we share our authors' commitment to premodern studies and understanding of the vital importance of humanities research. But we and our authors also benefit from close relationships with larger enterprises. We work with De Gruyter, a major European publisher, to produce our academic monographs and edited collections, and our longstanding partnership with TEAMS (Teaching Association for Medieval Studies) has given rise to nine series of affordable classroom texts.

Books published with MIP use literary, historical, and material sources and employ innovative and interdisciplinary approaches to what it has meant to be human through the ages. Focusing on the late antique, medieval, and early modern periods, our publications explore such topics as:

• The human experience
• Media, materiality and otherness
• Literature and literary culture
• Art, music and drama
• Religion and spirituality
• Popular culture

MIP publishes monographs and thematically coherent collections across several series. Although our publications have historically focused on medieval Europe, we have expanded geographically and chronologically to welcome submissions that embrace a wider conception of the premodern. We value a variety of established, new, and diverse voices in humanities research. MIP also publishes journals and several series of affordable classroom texts for the Teaching Association for Medieval Studies (TEAMS).

We look forward to working with you on the publication of your manuscript. To learn more about publishing with us, keep reading, check out our Author Resources page on our website at wmich.edu/medievalpublications/author-resources, or visit our series-specific webpages.
