Focus Areas

Students will engage in an integrative degree spanning human and mass communication. The degree adds value to students’ career advancement through:

- Leading teams and facilitating group discussions successfully
- Managing relationships effectively (i.e., conflict, feedback, motivation)
- Developing expertise in communication skills and knowledge for personal fulfillment and professional development
- Networking with communication professionals

Funding

Our graduate assistantships provide a competitive stipend plus a tuition waiver of nine credits per semester (18 credits per academic year). Working closely with faculty mentors, graduate students gain extensive teaching experience, including being responsible for their own sections of introductory courses. The annual funding consideration deadline is Feb. 1.

Admission

Applications are accepted on an ongoing basis, allowing students to begin coursework during the fall, spring and summer semesters.

Applications for graduate assistantships are due on February 1.

International

Fall: April 1
Spring: Aug. 1
Summer: Jan. 15

Estimated Time-to-degree Completion*

- Full time students (2-3 courses per semester, may also include summer sessions) – 2 years
- Part-time students (1-2 courses per semester, may also include summer sessions) – 2½ years

* reduced if students enroll in summer session
