Students should comment on the prejudicial language here, claims like “own her office,” of course, go too far.

Telling people how to vote is part and parcel of campaigns.

Unconvincing use of statistics.

There is no evidence to prove this negative.

Without confirmation from the I. of M., this is unfair. But, it’s also a failure to appropriately rely on an authority.

Even if this were true, medical use is a legal form and its endorsement has nothing to do with recreational use.

The word “wasted” is prejudicial.

Even if it is, this has nothing to do with the use of marijuana as a drug.

This might come to be the case, and certainly is worth investigating. But, revenue isn’t the only social good.

None of the bullet points here is defended, of course, and that deserves mention.
