1. Overall the weaknesses of Haworth College of Business are:

   Others

   - Slow computers-111
   - No ISM center
   - Ineffective teaching
   - Quality of the students accepted is low according to employers
   - Lack of students awareness of events
   - Communication of opportunities
   - Parking-1111111111
   - Availability and times for classes
   - Professor/student interaction
   - Expensive -1
   - Useless classes taking up time and money
   - Interaction in class environment
   - Teacher ratio is bad
   - Advising -11
   - All classes in the same area, don’t get to see campus
   - Lack of advertising program
   - Lecture halls
   - No online master’s program
   - More computers-1
   - Limited time on presentations
   - Scholarships
   - Good amount of stuff will never be used
   - More promotion of what it really has to offer
   - Hours of operation
   - “some type of classes”
   - Finance department
   - Poor promotion of students to out of state companies, not enough real world application
   - Career prep
   - Online homework
   - Technology
   - Catering to full time working students
   - Communicate with international students
   - Find a way to decrease text book costs
• Lack of quite study lounge or private team meeting areas. (If there are, they aren't well known)
• Do not consider students who work when planning events
• Not a lot of communication between students and HCoB
• Seems that HCoB hires a lot of faculty with accents and they are very hard to learn from.
• Different grading scales for classes that are the same. Peers in core classes don’t always match caliber often seems to prepare you for generic, cookie-cutter corporate jobs... we may have different outcomes.
• Class rooms need improvement and some professors need reevaluation. Too much money spent on unnecessary things.
• Some programs should have interviews before allowing students to join
• The amount of group work
• Teachings students how to be proficient with computer programs used in business-excel
• Lack of the feeling of importance to all the majors an on seem to love some more than others
• It seems we have great resources for students... however, I think students need to be made more aware of their options. Also, some centers seem intimidating and I haven't pursued any help from them.
• The number of sustainability courses and international business courses- I see you added one though, wish I could have taken it
• More classes in the evening for the students who work
• Classes not always easy to fit into a full-time work schedule
• Availability of required BBA courses
