A-S 3990

Refugees Worldwide

The class is organized as:

• Class instruction on Thursdays 4:00-5:15pm.

• During 3 of those class sessions, we will meet and interact with 3 world-class scholars/experts on refugees. (These experts are coming to campus from all over the U.S. and from abroad as guests of the economics department).

• Students will be placed with refugee-serving programs in our community for about 5 hours per week and share their experiences working with refugees during the Thursday class sessions.

• This course can be counted toward the Economics Minor.

Is the current refugee surge a crisis? Or is it an opportunity? Refugees Worldwide (A-S 3990), a 3 credit class with no prerequisites, will explore these questions using the experiences of refugees in Kalamazoo originating from all corners of the globe.

Please contact the class instructor, Dr. Susan Pozo (susan.pozo@wmich.edu) if you would like more information about this opportunity.

Offered in Fall 2024 and Spring 2025.
