The Map as a Weapon

The Map as a Weapon

Thursdays, 1 to 2:40 p.m.

Feb 1 - March 31

Maps do more than establish objective scientific and geographic information. Historically, maps have served as efficient technologies of power. They have ignored and established territorial claims. They have altered place names. They have identified and delineated spaces for manipulation, exploitation, and control. Students in this class will consider how maps can operate as political tools.

CRN 14663

Dr. Matt Nielsen (Global and international studies)

---

Warfare in Early Societies

Warfare in Early Societies

Tuesdays, 12:30 to 1:20 p.m.

This course will discuss early warfare, focusing on inter-group aggression among early humans and hunter-gatherer societies. Students will explore an evolutionary approach to understanding violence while also highlighting alliances and peacemaking between tribes, including examples from the Americas, Australia, and Papua New Guinea.

CRN 14664

Dr. Marcela Mendoza (Global and international studies)

---

Global Leadership

Global Leadership

Wednesdays, 2 to 3:40 p.m.

January 6 - February 28

This course focuses on leadership development within a global society including an exploration of global leadership competencies and contexts. Students will examine non-Western leadership perspectives, particularly in China, India and Southeast Asia.

CRN 14662

Dr. D. Eric Archer (Educational Leadership)